RAILROAD AND OTHER SHARES

CONTROL OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

The news to-day was moderately against the stock market. Despatches from the peace conference at Portsmouth were more pessimistic than they had been at any previous period. Current estimates of the losses of cash by the banks during the week ran between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000; call and time money rates were firmer and there was some calling of loans by banking institutions. It was obvious, too, that the profit taking movement among speculators for the rise, which was in full force yesterday and which had set in for purely general reasons, had not yet run its course None of these matters taken separately would perhaps have been powerful enough to produce any material effect upon prices, but their combined influence sufficed to bring about the most considerable recession in market valuations seen during the present month. Prices came from London irregularly up and down, and it was observable that despite the discouraging reports from Portsmouth quotations for Russian and Japanese bonds in London and Paris, and even for Russian bonds in St. Petersburg, were not only not depressed but showed an advancing tendency. The Mortgage bearing date March 1, 1880, have this day, July 12th, 1905, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., at the uncertainty and for a time held steady. The selling of stocks, however, gradually assumed greater vigor and at midday served to bring about general weakness. The larger portion of the declines appeared to be caused by the execution of stop orders placed close to ruling quotations by speculators, who either proposed to take small losses on their ventures or to make certain that all of their profits did not escape them. After this the selling but the downward movement was resumed again before the close of business and the final prices of stocks were not far from the lowest. In the earlier part of the day the Pennsylvania shares were specially firm, and in the afternoon rally Reading common stock made a new high record price. The heavy and continual absorption of the United States Steel common shares was also noticeable. Little attention appeared to be excited by the favorable developments of the day, such as the sharp fall in the price of wheat owing to the spread of magnificent weather over the spring wheat section and the wind-up of the railroad telegraphers' strike in the Northwest.

> Such a reaction in prices as occurred to-day will make it appear plausible to nobody but the most flighty speculator that there has been any change in the general character of the stock market. No one surely, can expect that the season is to pass without shipments of money to the West for crop moving which will in a general way tend to elevate money rates here. But the point of importance seems to be that the abundance of money is now so great, not only in our own country but in Europe that nothing more than a small and temporary rise in the price of funds is reasonably to be looked for. While there will be general disgust if the conference at Portsmouth ends without the conclusion of a peace treaty, and a strong disposition will be manifested here and abroad to visit severe censure either upon the party to the conference that was unwilling to make necessary concessions or upon the party that presented impossible demands, the effect of this resentment upon prices of American stocks can be no more than passing and sentimental, nor can the prosperity of our country, which has proceeded from a state of affairs wholly unconnected with the Russo-Japanese contest, be checked by the continuance of the struggle. It would not be at all surprising if history would show that the most pronounced influence exercised by the entire affair upon our stock market was that of the uncertainty regarding the upshot of the matter that is now being experienced. New York Stock Exchange Sales Aug. 18.

RAILROAD EARNINGS. after an excessively rainy season is more than it can stand."

Messrs. Brown. Freeman. Parker. Howard. Wilson and Siedenburg were buyers. Messrs. Weld, Mitchell and Norden sold.

Miller & Co. said: The news from Liverpool that the strike had been definitely averted was supplemented by unusually favorable telegrams from Fall River and other mill centers, which report the demand for goods the best that has been seen in years. Southern spot markets, however, did not develop any new spinners' demand, although telegrams are hopeful of its early appearance, especially should rain fail to appear in Texas within the next few days. The market will continue for some time to be a weather one, but the buils will have the better end of the situation until general rains in the Western belt remove the present apprehension."
